Prenatal Care Is Big Gun in Fight Of March of Dimes on Birth Defects

Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons Until now medical scientists have been unable to measure the direct influence of prenatal care upon the incidence of infants born with serious birth defects. which in the United States total about 250,000 a year. But scientists do know that the two are associated in some way. For example, we know that: · Faulty prenatal development s the principal cause of still births, of babies handicapped by

• Medical supervision, especially in the early months of pregnancy, can minimize risks, save lives and reduce disability Good prenatal care, for instance, does reduce the incidence of prematurity.

Fortunately, we can say to day that the chances are about 15 to 1 that every time a baby is born in this country, happiness reigns. The parents can say, thankfully, "our baby is normal." For every 15 normal." For every 15 normal infants, however, one will be born defective. to do almost anything from baking a cake to building a house, from managing a home to conducting a business. But by far the most important are the books which show us how to build our lives.

The greatest among these is the Bible, a book which has withstood the test of centuries. Within it are God's directions for abundant living. But it is not easy to put these directions into practice. We need help.

We turn to the Church. In the Church we find inspiration through the companionship of others who with us strive for a better life. There, in prayer and worship, we know the blessings of God, the Father. We learn to follow the example of the Christ, and feel the power of His Spirit who alone enables us to live the abundant life.
